As Omicron/Covid continues, so does the need for masks. While N95 and KN95 offer the best protection, many people won't wear them due to discomfort and poor fit. The CDC is recommending a cloth mask layered with a surgical mask. They advise putting the surgical on first, pinching the nose and fanning the front, then putting the cloth on top of that. They say it's the most comfortable for long-lasting wear, while providing the most protection.
